YEAR OF THE DOG
2018
 NEW YEARS OHANA FESTIVAL

Kanpai!

Aloha JCCH Members and Friends!

On behalf of JCCH Board Chair Christine Kubota, board of directors, volunteers and staff, I want to thank you for another successful year. The fall months have been especially busy for us but we enjoyed having the chance to visit the Nisei Veterans Memorial Center in Maui with author Barbara Kawakami followed by a full cultural celebration day at the Matsuri Kauai! JCCH was one of ten organizations chosen to collaborate with the Go For Broke National Education Center on its national traveling exhibition Communities of Compassion and Courage. And we were honored to host George Takei and the cast of the Broadway musical, Allegiance, in the Manoa Grand Ballroom. It's been a great year, but we're also looking forward to the New Year with excitement and anticipation!

JCCH kicks off 2018, the Year of the Dog, with the 25th annual New Year's 'Ohana Festival and the 150th anniversary of the Gannen mono, the first Japanese immigrants to arrive in Hawai'i, on Sunday, January 14th. Our own board chair is serving as one of the tri-co-chairs to the 150th anniversary celebration to be commemorated statewide throughout the year! Keep in touch with JCCH to learn about the special events and activities to mark this historic anniversary.

In addition to our cultural education workshops, festivals and book events, look for JCCH to release a mini-documentary film series on Hawai'i confinement sites. The mini-documentaries include new oral histories of descendants of former internees and updated research on the sites located on Maui, Kaua'i, and Hawai'i Island. We'll be bringing the films to your community in the Spring of 2018. Plans are also underway for the 2018 Sharing the Spirit of Aloha Annual Gala on June 16th! In addition to recognizing outstanding organizations and individuals for their work preserving history, the arts, and for breaking new ground for Japanese Americans, the Gala will also be an occasion to commemorate 150 years of Japanese in Hawai'i.

As Chair Kubota would say, "We are many things to many people!" Thank you all for making 2017 a memorable year! With your continued support, we will fulfill our pledge to "honor our heritage, celebrate our diversity, and share our future." Have a wonderful holiday!

GIFT SHOP TREASURES

Unique treasures are abundant in the JCCH Gift Shop. But sometimes the find is not in the item itself, but in the possibilities.

JCCH member Marilyn Kobata is a frequent shopper at the JCCH Gift Shop and knows this all too well. During a recent visit to the Gift Shop, Marilyn found a haori (Japanese formal coat) that caught her eye but the sleeve was separated from the body. She took the haori to her seamstress, Jan Tsujimura, who removed the attached sleeve and used the material and the lining from both sleeves to create a matching top. The top turned out so well that Marilyn was asked to model the haori and the top in the Hui Makaala Annual Scholarship Fashion Show.

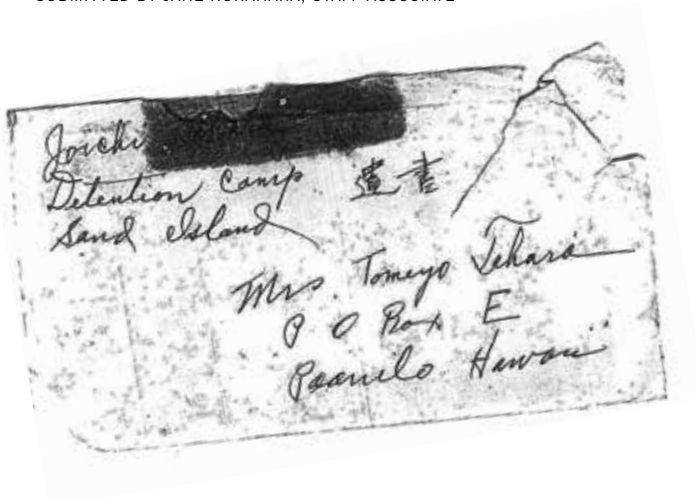

Marilyn feels the Gift Shop is treasure trove full of incredible pieces at affordable prices. She encourages everyone to visit the store on a regular basis. You never know what you will find.

TAHARA FAMILY REUNION
AT SITE OF HONOLULU INTERNMENT CAMP JULY 11, 2015

FAMILY LEGACIES: BRIDGES ACROSS THE GENERATIONS

SUBMITTED BY JANE KURAHARA, STAFF ASSOCIATE

Fourteen year old Heather Dinman, a yonse (fourth generation) in the Tahara family, was recently awarded the gold medal by Hawai'i History Day for her website, "The 100th Infantry Battalion and 442nd Regimental Combat Team's Stand Against Racial Discrimination" (<http://25749885.weebly.com>).

Heather Dinman is the great-granddaughter of Joichi Tahara. Joichi Tahara immigrated to Hawai'i in 1906, married Tomeyo Okino, and had nine children. On an eight acre property in Pa'auiilo, he built a house, a store and started raising a loving, close knit family.

December 7, 1941 interrupted his life and ripped the family apart. Joichi was arrested and eventually incarcerated at Honouliuli. His health issues reached a crisis stage and he was taken out of Honouliuli Internment Camp to Tripler Hospital where he passed away.

This story might have ended here, but many years later, while cleaning, Heather's aunts accidentally found a letter in an envelope that

第一場合を虎一書と遺して置き
最愛なる事トノヨク九人ノ子供等。
一九四二年三月七日官憲に引かれて監禁所
所は越えしより今日に至る迄一刻も
事なき家族の事若し我が身と重事
起りて歸宅致し事能ざる時は定めて
落膽をすであろ一が是れ皆又自定
運命なれば決してあげきかなむと後
僕が家庭を一歩出た時は見送る人
血を歸家せしと申したけれ共其時即ち自
分より完全覚悟はして居た東亜永遠の

had never been sent. It seemed as if Joichi had had a premonition that he might not see his family again and wrote a letter, now translated into English, that was addressed to his wife. It spoke of his love and admiration for her and her efforts to raise their children on her own, and also let her know that his worldly assets belonged to her should anything happen to him.

Again, the story might have ended, except that this close family enjoyed getting together. Their parties evolved into family reunions carefully planned by the generations of Taharas. In 2015, the Tahara family wanted to bring together their 100+ family members from the mainland and Hawai'i. Their family reunion included places of importance to Joichi Tahara, including Pearl Harbor, the USS Arizona Memorial and Honouliuli Gulch. It was at Honouliuli they could feel something of what Joichi must have felt when he was incarcerated. For eleven year old Heather, it was her first significant family reunion.

In her History Day project, Heather wrote, "I chose my topic of racial discrimination during World War II because my great grandfather, Joichi Tahara, was taken from his family because of his Japanese ancestry, and relocated to the Honouliuli Internment Camp, where he died at the age of 55. At our 2015 Tahara family reunion, I learned about the bombing of Pearl Harbor and the internment camps. I was proud of my great uncles for taking a stand in history by joining the U.S. Army to fight for American democracy and rights for Japanese Americans. As we paid our respects at the site of the former Honouliuli Internment Camp in Kunia, Hawai'i, I felt passionate about someday doing a project to show others we should not let this mistake happen again."

Heather attended the opening of the Honouliuli Education Center at JCCH with her mother in October 2016. It was at JCCH where Heather had the opportunity to meet Senator Brian Schatz. Senator Schatz guided Heather to research the laws related to the immigration of the Japanese to the U.S., which helped Heather develop her thesis and address the theme of "Taking a Stand in History".

The Tahara family story is rich and multi-layered, and serves as a real life example of family values and history being passed down through the generations; it is a reflection of the Japanese expression, Okage Sama De: I am what I am because of you.

Lynette Tahara Kim, sister April Tahara Carvalho, and their mother, Mildred Yutako Tanimoto Tahara reflected, "Passing on the information and allowing family members to have further conversations about what transpired was the most important thing. This information provided an opportunity for more questions and discussion that wouldn't otherwise take place."

JCCH Members: Are you interested in doing things to help your family bridge the generations? Are you interested in learning more about your family history? Please share your stories or contact us if we can assist with preserving your family history by emailing us at info@jcch.com.

“We are filled with pride as the Japanese Cultural Center of Hawai‘i (JCCH) prepares to celebrate the 150th anniversary of Japanese in Hawai‘i in 2018 at the Spirit of Aloha Gala on Saturday, June 16, 2018,” said Christine Kubota, JCCH board chair and co-chair of the 150th Gannen mono commemoration.

“We hope our members and the community will join us at this not-to-be-missed evening that celebrates the evolution of Japanese in Hawai‘i and the contributions of outstanding individuals and organizations to our community.”

Carole Hayashino, JCCH president and executive director, added, “For being pioneers in their fields and demonstrating the ganbatte spirit of Issei immigrants, we’re honored to recognize four outstanding organizations and three inspiring individuals with the JCCH Spirit of Aloha award. It’s going to be a spectacular evening as we toast these remarkable leaders, celebrate 150 years of Japanese in Hawai‘i and look forward into the future.”

For more information on the 2018 gala, please contact Michelle Miyashiro at miyashiro@jcch.com.

2018 MARKS THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF JAPANESE IN HAWAI'I

As an active member of the Kizuna group, a consortium of Japanese organizations in Honolulu, JCCH is actively participating in the planning for the 150th anniversary of the Gannen mono, the first organized group of Japanese immigrants to Hawai'i.

"Gannen mono traveled out of Japan and arrived at the Honolulu Port on June 19, 1868," said Christine Kubota, tri-co-chair of the 150th anniversary. "They were the first 'Japanese' to leave Japan ever and against the will of the then Meiji government — traveling to Hawai'i with no passport or permission to enter but greeted kindly by the people of Hawai'i."

The Gannen mono Steering Committee was formed to plan and coordinate a year-long calendar of events. The Committee was initially established under the guidance of the Consul General of Japan with Tyler Tokioka, Sal Miwa and Christine Kubota as the Tri-Chairs. The highlight will be in June 2018 when the Convention of Nikkei and Japanese Abroad meets in Honolulu and the 150th Gannen mono Ceremony and Symposium will be held.

MAHALO FREEMAN FOUNDATION!

The Freeman Foundation awarded JCCH a grant of $35,000 to support its World War II oral histories of internees' families which will be incorporated into the video documentary series of Hawai'i's confinement sites.

The video series is a four-part documentary sequel to The Untold Story, produced in 2012 through a Japanese American Confinement Sites grant. The sequel is comprised of four 20-minute films focusing on the 17 Japanese American internment sites dispersed throughout the islands of Hawai'i, Kaua'i, O'ahu, Maui, Moloka'i, and Lana'i.

The Freeman Foundation has been a generous supporter of the JCCH, providing lead support for the Honouliuli Education Center at the JCCH. "The Freeman Foundation shares our interest in historic preservation, the physical sites as well as the stories associated with the sites," said Carole Hayashino. "We're grateful to partner with the Freeman Foundation to capture our history."

The videos featuring family stories of each island will be released by the JCCH in the Spring 2018. For more information on the short documentaries, please contact Audrey Muromoto at (808) 945-7633 Ext. 28 or at muromoto@jcch.com.

JCCH Historical Gallery

The Japanese Cultural Center of Hawai'i and Go For Broke National Education Center (GFBNEC) are hosting a national traveling exhibition, Courage and Compassion: Our Shared Story of the Japanese American WWII Experience. The exhibition, which opened on Nov. 11, will run through Dec. 9, 2017 at the Japanese Cultural Center of Hawai'i Historical Gallery.

The exhibit chronicles the story of the Japanese American experience during WWII and features local stories of bravery and tolerance from Hawai'i. The GFBNEC exhibit is funded in part by a 2016 grant administered by the National Park Service (NPS).

Courage and Compassion covers the events from Pearl Harbor through wartime incarceration, postwar resettlement and the redress movement that resulted in the Civil Liberties Act of 1988. The interactive exhibit features images and audio of firsthand accounts, including interviews of Japanese American soldiers from GFBNEC's Hanashi Oral History Collection.

The Japanese Cultural Center of Hawai'i is the second community to host Courage and Compassion which debuted in Salem, Oregon in July at the Willamette Heritage Center. The exhibit will travel to 10 U.S. communities whose residents extended a helping hand to Japanese Americans during and after the turbulent days of WWII. For additional information, please visit http://www.goforbroke.org/visit/traveling_exhibit or contact the Japanese Cultural Center of Hawai'i at (808) 945-7633 or programs@jcch.com.
